

I urge you not to take a vote on June 2, as presently scheduled, on proposed new rules concerning ownership of media outlets. More time and provision of opportunity for public comment and public edification on the issues is vital to a democratic republic. An informed citizenry is essential to democracy, and oligarchic control of information is inimical to the great American experiment in self-governance.